Education Savings Account Applications Continue to Pour In

Carson City, NV. The State Treasurer's Office announced that it had received over 1,000 more applications during the most recent enrollment period, which ended last week.

Treasurer Dan Schwartz said, "The continued stream of ESA applications indicates the importance which Nevada families attach to educational choice. In spite of great uncertainty over the court-ordered injunction as well as our ability to only take paper applications, the ESA program continues to generate enormous interest among Nevada parents.

"The final briefing period with the Nevada Supreme Court ends one week from today on April 11. We have confidence that the Court will make a decision soon so that families are no longer left in limbo and can proceed with educational plans for their children during the next academic year."

The next scheduled open enrollment period to apply for an ESA account is May 1 – June 30, 2016. All applications received during the enrollment period were date stamped, and will be processed promptly if the injunction is lifted.
